NICE Systems Wins Two Large Contracts Worth $9.7 Million

Ra'anana, Israel, November 16th, 2004 - NICE Systems (NASDAQ: NICE) a global provider of advanced solutions that enable organizations to extract the value hidden within multimedia interactions to drive performance today announced that it has won two large contracts for the supply of advanced security solutions to two leading government agencies in EMEA, including a replacement of a competitor's existing system. The initial size of these two contracts is $9.7M, and implementation is expected to be completed during the next 12 months.

NICE security solutions enable government agencies to fight terrorism, crime and other threats to national security more effectively.

"We're very pleased with these significant new contracts, which confirm our strong position in the security market" said Yoav Zaltzman, corporate vice president at NICE. "We are delighted to see ever-growing demand for our solutions around the world."

NICE Perform(TM) Receives National Media Coverage on CNBC

Solution Recognized for Uniquely Enabling Enterprises to Extract Valuable Business Information

Ra'anana, Israel, November 22, 2004 - NICE Systems (NASDAQ: NICE), the global provider of advanced solutions that enable organizations to extract insight from interactions to drive performance was featured on CNBC's `Closing Bell`, on November 19th, in a segment that focuses on new and leading technologies.

The November 19th broadcast offered viewers not only a wrap-up of the trading day, but also insights into the latest in cutting edge business solutions. The segment in which NICE was featured provided an audience of millions of viewers with an in-depth focus on NICE Perform(TM), a fully-integrated suite of solutions that provides multi-dimensional analytics that offer innovative ways for organizations to drive business performance.

The program segment highlighted the quantifiable benefits of NICE Perform, where it captures and analyzes vital unstructured multimedia interactions, such as telephone calls, and then utilizes multi-dimensional analytics for proactive decision making and strategic planning. It was noted that with features such as automatically spotting pre-defined key words and phrases, or through the detection of emotion in the voices of the agent or customer, organizations are empowered with unprecedented capacity for gathering critical information that can be utilized to better understand customer intent and behavior. Coverage also included a detailed customer testimonial and a demonstration of the solution in action.

"We are very happy to have received such noteworthy recognition of market leadership and innovation," said Haim Shani, President and CEO, NICE Systems Ltd. "The prominence received on CNBC's well-regarded program constitutes further affirmation that our solution offers unmatched business value for improving cost-effectiveness and overall performance at the enterprise level. Sutherland India Expands NICE Implementations to Two New VoIP Call Centers

Ra'anana, Israel, November 29, 2004 - NICE Systems (NASDAQ: NICE), the global provider of advanced solutions that enable organizations to extract insight from interactions to drive performance, today announced that leading Indian outsourcer Sutherland, a user of NICE's advanced solutions, has decided to increase its number of NICE implementations by placing an order for the company's VoIP contact center solution, which will be utilized in two separate sites in Bombay and Chennai. This order is the latest in a series of contracts and reinforces the growing market acceptance and leadership of NICE's suite of solutions for VOIP environments.

Serving dozens of Fortune 100 Companies, Sutherland needed a solution that would maintain and increase their call center quality standards, reduce attrition, and lower costs. They also required a solution that would seamlessly integrate with sites operating in a hybrid (VoIP and TDM) environment.

The NICE solution will enable Sutherland to provide the companies it serves timely insight from their outsourced customer interactions, thereby driving performance by further increasing quality levels, and by lowering training and hiring expenses.

NICE will also help maintain a low total cost of ownership by seamlessly integrating with the Avaya and Nortel VoIP environments used by Sutherland, and by providing centralized administration from a single site.

"At Sutherland, we strive to provide exceptional contact center performance and quality of service in a highly cost effective model," said KS Kumar, VP Operations of Sutherland Inc. "The NICE solutions go beyond our IT and customer care requirements to provide insights that enable us, and our renowned list of customers, to turn interactions into tangible means of improving the business."

"We are happy to continue to extend our relationship with Sutherland," said Doron Ben Sira, President, NICE APAC Ltd. "This is direct result of our strong VoIP technologies and added proof of our strong market leadership in APAC. We are committed to continue providing integrated solutions and services that exceed the complex demands of call centers worldwide."
