Re: Eaton Vance Florida Municipal Income Trust (FEV); and Eaton Vance Insured Florida Municipal Bond Fund (EIF)

Mr. Marius:

Karpus Management, Inc., d/b/a Karpus Investment Management ("Karpus"), represents beneficial ownership of 469,984 shares, or 11.04%, of Eaton Vance Florida Municipal Income Trust ("FEV") and 285,293 shares, or 11.08%, of Eaton Vance Insured Florida Municipal Bond Fund ("EIF"). As you are aware, Florida repealed its intangible personal property tax effective January 1, 2007 and has no state income tax. As a result, municipal bonds issued by the state of Florida no longer provide a specific tax advantage to Florida residents, and there is no reason to maintain a Florida state specific bond fund. These funds do not offer shareholders the benefits of the funds' original objective, and shareholders should be given an opportunity to exit these funds without damage. We believe the board has 3 options to consider: 1.) liquidate; 2.) merge with a national municipal bond open-end fund; or 3.) merge with a national municipal bond closed-end fund. As the largest shareholder of these 2 funds, we are concerned with being exposed to a high concentration of Florida securities without realizing favorable tax treatment. Regarding Option 1, liquidating the fund would allow shareholders to exit the fund and diversify into a similar national municipal bond fund at net asset value. Alternatively, Option 2 would also allow dissenting shareholders an opportunity to reduce their exposure to Florida without damage. Lastly, Option 3 (and the least preferable), is to merge the funds into a similar national closed-end fund (EIM, EIV, EVN). While this option may increase liquidity and reduce expenses for the funds, we are concerned that it may create a disproportionate weighting of Florida bonds that could not be reduced in a timely and cost effective manner. Thank you for your time and consideration. Please do not hesitate to contact me directly to discuss these matters.

Sincerely,

/s/
