Item 1.01. Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement.

On June 15, 2009, Greystone Logistics, Inc. (the "Company") and Sonoco Products Company ("Sonoco") entered into a Raw Materials/Goods Purchase Contract (the "Contract") relating to the purchase by Sonoco from the Company of pallets made from 100% recycled plastic. The Contract does not obligate Sonoco to purchase any particular quantity, volume or value of pallets. The term of the Contract ends on March 31, 2010, subject to the extension of the Contract by agreement of the Company and Sonoco. Sonoco may terminate the Contract or any purchase order for pallets (i) for cause, or (ii) at any time at its sole convenience. In the event of any termination by Sonoco of the Contract or any purchase order "for cause" (which includes terminations based on a Company default under the Contract not cured within 30 days of the Company's receipt of written notice of such default, including late delivery of product, delivery of defective product, failure to provide Sonoco, at its request, with adequate assurances of future performance, or the insolvency of the Company or the filing by the Company of a petition in bankruptcy, reorganization or other insolvency proceeding), Sonoco shall not be liable to the Company for any amount of pallets returned to the Company, and the Company shall be liable to Sonoco for actual damages sustained by reason of the default which gave rise to the termination. In the event of any termination by Sonoco of the Contract or any purchase order at the "convenience" of Sonoco, Sonoco shall pay the Company a termination penalty equal to the sum of the Company's purchase price for all pallets not usable in the Company's other operations or marketable to the Company's other customers plus the actual costs incurred by the Company in procuring and manufacturing material not usable in the Company's other operations.
