Item 8.01 Other Events

On September 21, 2011, Overstock.com, Inc. (the Company) completed its previously-announced redemption of the Company's 3.75% Convertible Senior Notes due December 1, 2011 (the Notes) by depositing the full amount of the redemption price for the outstanding Notes with the paying agent for the Notes. The Company funded the redemption of the Notes with a combination of cash on hand and a $17 million draw under its Financing Agreement with U.S. Bank National Association. Amounts due under the Financing Agreement are due on December 31, 2012. The Financing Agreement contains standard default provisions. In addition, the Company's failure to keep at least $20 million on deposit in certain accounts with U.S. Bank would constitute a "triggering event" under the Financing Agreement. As described in the Company's prior reports, the Company is also a party to a Master Lease Agreement and a Financial Covenants Rider and related documents (collectively, the "Master Lease Agreement") with U.S. Bancorp Equipment Finance, Inc. Technology Finance Group ("Lessor"), an affiliate of U.S. Bank National Association, which requires the Company to maintain a minimum liquidity (defined as cash plus marketable securities) of $30 million in the aggregate (which amount includes any minimum liquidity required under the Financing Agreement) at all times on deposit with U.S. Bank National Association until all amounts owed under the Master Lease Agreement are paid in full. The Master Lease Agreement provides that the Company is permitted to withdraw the funds on deposit with U.S. Bank National Association at the Company's discretion, although its failure to maintain a minimum liquidity of $30 million would be an Event of Default under the Master Lease Agreement. An Event of Default under the Master Lease Agreement would cause an Event of Default under the Financing Agreement. A copy of the press release issued by the Company on September 21, 2011 regarding the redemption of the Notes is furnished herewith as Exhibit 99.1.
