Questions for Common Shareholders (for posting on Globe website under the FAQ section)***

Could you explain the business combination between Globe and Grupo FerroAtlantica?

Globe and FerroAtlantica have agreed to merge and create a global leader in silicon and specialty metals. Existing shareholders in Globe will own 43% of this new company. The private Spanish company Grupo Villar Mir, which currently owns FerroAtlantica, will hold 57% of the new company.

What does this deal mean for me?

Upon completion, you will own an interest in a new, market leading company in silicon and specialty metals that will be listed on the NASDAQ stock exchange and headquartered in London, UK.

What will happen to the shares I own in Globe?

Each of your existing Globe shares will become one ordinary share in the new company, which will be a UK PLC. The new company will have many advantages, including a more diversified production base and business mix. This reduces its portfolio concentration to better manage through industry cycles. It will expect to have a more robust and effective balance sheet to support existing growth platforms and future strategic ambitions.

What are the next steps for me and what do I have to do?

This transaction is subject to Globe shareholder approval. A shareholder vote will be scheduled later this year. We will keep all shareholders updated as plans advance.

Where will the new company be listed?

·The new company will be listed on NASDAQ, the exchange on which Globe now trades.

What are the tax implications for this transaction?

·The transaction is expected to be tax-free to Globe shareholders.
·Please consult a tax advisor with any additional questions.

Will Globe continue to pay a dividend to shareholders?

·During the transaction review period leading up to close, Globe intends to continue to pay a dividend to shareholders.

Important Information

Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

Certain statements in this communication regarding the proposed transaction among Globe, Grupo Villar Mir, FerroAtlántica and VeloNewco, the expected timetable for completing the transaction, benefits and synergies of the transaction, future opportunities for the combined company and products and any other statements regarding Globe's, Grupo Villar Mir's, FerroAtlántica's and VeloNewco's future expectations, beliefs, plans, objectives, financial conditions, assumptions or future events or performance that are not historical facts are "forward-looking" statements made within the meaning of Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. These statements are often, but not always, made through the use of words or phrases such as "believe," "anticipate," "could," "may," "would," "should," "intend," "potential," "predict(s)," "will," "expect(s)," "estimate(s)," "project(s)," "positioned," "strategy," "outlook" and similar expressions. Such forward-looking statements involve estimates and assumptions that are subject to risks, uncertainties and other factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from the results expressed in the statements. Among the key factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those projected in the forward-looking statements are the following: Globe, Grupo Villar Mir, FerroAtlántica and VeloNewco's ability to consummate the transaction; the conditions to the completion of the transaction, including the receipt of stockholder approval; regulatory approvals required for the transaction may not be obtained on the terms expected or on the anticipated schedule; Globe, Grupo Villar Mir, FerroAtlántica and VeloNewco's ability to meet expectations regarding the timing, completion and other aspects of the transaction; the possibility that the parties may be unable to successfully integrate Globe's and FerroAtlántica's operations; such integration may be more difficult, time-consuming or costly than expected; operating costs, customer loss and business disruption (including, without limitation, difficulties in maintaining relationships with employees, customers, clients or suppliers) may be greater than expected following the transaction; the retention of certain key employees may be difficult; the intense competition and expected increased competition in the future; the ability to adapt services to changes in technology or the marketplace; the ability to maintain and grow relationships with customers and clients; the historic cyclicity of the metals industry and the attendant swings in market price and demand; increases in energy costs and the effect on costs of production; disruptions in the supply of power; availability of raw materials or transportation; cost of raw material inputs and the ability to pass along those costs to customers; costs associated with labor disputes and stoppages; the ability to generate sufficient cash to service indebtedness; integration and development of prior and future acquisitions; VeloNewco's ability to effectively implement strategic initiatives and actions taken to increase sales growth; VeloNewco's ability to compete successfully; availability and cost of maintaining adequate levels of insurance; the ability to protect trade secrets or maintain their trademarks and other intellectual property; equipment failures, delays in deliveries or catastrophic loss at any of Globe's, FerroAtlántica's or VeloNewco's manufacturing facilities; changes in laws protecting U.S. and Canadian companies from unfair foreign competition or the measures currently in place or expected to be imposed under those laws; compliance with, potential liability under, and risks related to environmental, health and safety laws and regulations (and changes in such laws and regulations, including their enforcement or interpretation); risks from international operations, such as foreign exchange, tariff, tax, inflation, increased costs, political risks and their ability to expand in certain international markets; risks associated with the metals manufacturing and smelting activity; ability to manage price and operational risks including industrial accidents and natural disasters; ability to acquire or renew permits and approvals; potential loss due to immediate cancellations of service contracts; risks associated with potential unionization of employees or work stoppages that could adversely affect the parties' operations; changes in general economic, business and political conditions, including changes in the financial markets; and exchange rate fluctuation. Additional information concerning these and other factors can be found in Globe's filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"), including Globe's most recent Annual Reports on Form 10-K, Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q and Current Reports on Form 8-K. Readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements that speak only as of the date hereof and Globe, FerroAtlántica or VeloNewco undertakes no obligation to update or revise publicly any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.
