Item 8.01. Other Events.

Seagate executives, while at recent Regulation FD compliant investment conferences and in meetings this week with investors, have and will be communicating the following information specific to the March 2006 quarter:

Demand is within normal seasonal trends for the client/server markets (personal computers, notebooks and enterprise), while the consumer electronics market continues to grow quarter over quarter.

Pricing, in aggregate, is anticipated to be within the company's expectation when the quarter began.

The company remains comfortable with the financial guidance provided on January 18th, 2006 and believes the guidance reflects the normal seasonal patterns that occur in a March quarter.

Given the typical shipment profile for a March quarter, the demand and pricing environment during the remainder of the quarter will heavily influence the company's financial performance.
