This presentation may include forward-looking statements within the meaning of the safe harbor provisions of Section 27A of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the Exchange Act ).

Forward-looking statements, which are based on certain assumptions, and describe our future plans, strategies, and expectations we believe, expect, intend, anticipate, estimate, project, plan or future or conditional verbs such as will, we believe that our plans, intentions and expectations as reflected in these forward-looking statements are reasonable, we can expect our expectations will be achieved or realized. Our ability to predict results or the actual effects of our plans and strategies are inherent in our business and our achievements could differ materially from those contemplated, expressed or implied by, the forward-looking statements contained herein. Factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from our forward-looking statements are set forth under the heading Forward-Looking Information in our recent Annual Report on Form 10-K, and in other reports filed with the SEC.

There are a number of factors, many of which are beyond our control, that could cause actual conditions, events, or results to differ from our forward-looking statements. These factors include, but are not limited to: general economic conditions, either nationally or in some or all of our respective businesses; conditions in the securities markets and real estate markets or the banking industry; changes in interest rates; changes in penalty income, and other future cash flows, or the market value of our assets, including our investment securities; changes in the demand for deposit, loan, and investment products and other financial services in the markets we serve; changes in the capital markets; changes in our customer base or in the financial or operating performances of our customers' businesses; changes in the quality of the assets securing the loans in our portfolio; changes in the quality or composition of our loan or securities portfolios; changes in the ability of financial institutions or from non-financial institutions; the ability to successfully integrate any assets, liabilities, customers, systems and operations of AmTrust Bank, into our operations and our ability to realize related revenue synergies and cost savings within expected time frames; our timely development of new lines of business and competitive products or services in a changing environment, and the acceptance of any interruption or breach of security resulting in failures or disruptions in customer account management, general ledger, deposit, or other service due to circumstances beyond our control; potential exposure to unknown or contingent liabilities of companies we have acquired or AmTrust Bank; the outcome of pending or threatened litigation, or of other matters before regulatory agencies, whether currently pending; conditions that exist or may exist on properties owned by, leased by or mortgaged to the Company; operational issues stemming from our potential need to adapt to industry changes in information technology systems, on which we are highly dependent; changes in the accounting review thereof under relevant regulatory and accounting requirements; changes in our capital management policies, including our share repurchases, among others; changes in legislation, regulation, policies, or administrative practices, whether by judicial, governmental or regulatory action, limited to, those pertaining to banking, securities, taxation, rent regulation and housing, environmental protection, and insurance; changes in the manner; additional FDIC special assessments or required assessment prepayments; changes in accounting principles, policies, and practices, and implement on a timely basis, technological changes; changes in the monetary and fiscal policies of the U.S. Government, including the Federal Reserve and the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System ( FRB ); war or terrorist activities; and other economic, competitive, or legal factors affecting our operations, pricing and services.

Additionally, the timing and occurrence or non-occurrence of events may be subject to circumstances beyond our control. It should be noted that we routinely evaluate opportunities to expand through acquisitions and frequently conduct due diligence on potential acquisitions. As a result, acquisition discussions and, in some cases, negotiations, may take place at any time, and acquisitions involving cash or other consideration. You should not place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements, which reflect our expectations only as of the date of this presentation. Reconciliation of GAAP and non-GAAP capital

Although tangible common equity and tangible assets are not measures that are calculated in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles

our

management

uses

these

non-GAAP

measures
in its analysis
of
performance.

We
believe
that these non-GAAP measures are important indications of our ability to grow both organically and through business combinations.
In
respect to tangible common equity, our ability to pay dividends and to engage in various capital management strategies.

We calculate tangible
common
equity
by subtracting
from stockholders
equity
the
sum
goodwill
and
core
deposit
intangibles ( CDI ),
and calculate tangible assets by subtracting the same sum from our total assets.

Neither tangible common equity, tangible assets, nor the related tangible capital measures should be considered in isolation or as a substitute for

equity
or any other
capital
measure
prepared
accordance with GAAP.
Moreover,
manner

calculate these non-GAAP capital measures may differ from that of other companies reporting measures of capital with similar
