Title: Symantec & LifeLock: Transforming consumer security!

From: Greg Clark

Team,

I have always been a big fan of LifeLock and the important work you do so you can imagine my excitement to be reaching out to you about the incredible future our two companies will build, side-by-side.

The secret to a successful business is to find a need in the market and build a solution that solves that problem better than anyone else. At LifeLock, you've done more than that you've become the name that people across the country turn to in order to keep their identities safe: an achievement that companies in any market space rarely attain.

We've spent a lot of time in recent months learning more about LifeLock, and what we've learned only underscores our great impression. You have built a trusted company that is driving double-digit growth and innovating like no one else with technologies and analytics developed by ID Analytics.

You are the team we want to partner with and bring that future to life.

At Symantec, we too are passionate about what we do: we keep the world's information safe. We're the leading provider of consumer security through our Norton product, protecting the information of 50+ million subscribers around the world. We are the best at what we do because we are committed to our mission.

As partners, we can accelerate the growth of LifeLock and Norton, while winning for our customers and creating new opportunities for all of us. Our companies are built upon common values with complementary missions that will allow us to move forward quickly and with confidence. Fran Rosch, our Executive Vice President of the consumer business unit, and I will be joining your huddle tomorrow morning. And we look forward to visiting LifeLock's key sites over the next few weeks to get to know you and to answer your questions.

We expect this transaction to close in the first calendar quarter of 2017. Until then, Symantec and LifeLock will continue to operate as separate companies while designated teams from both companies begin to plan our integration.

Today, we have announced a union that will revolutionize the way we help consumers protect their digital lives by joining forces with you. Together, Symantec and LifeLock will deliver unparalleled digital safety, a solution that safeguards our customers against information loss and identity theft, and defends their digital freedom.

It's a big day for Symantec and LifeLock. We are committed to transforming the cyber security and the identity protection industries and we are honored to pursue and achieve that goal with you. Our customers will be excited, the market will stand up and take notice, and we, as a team, will see great results from our efforts.

Together, Symantec and LifeLock will raise the bar to transform the consumer security industry. I look forward to starting this journey with all of you.

Greg
