Apex Municipal Fund, Inc., December 31, 2002

DEAR SHAREHOLDER

For the six months ended December 31, 2002, Apex Municipal Fund, Inc. earned $.278 per share income dividends, which included earned and unpaid dividends of $.047. This represents a net annualized yield of 6.25%, based on a period-end net asset value of $8.84 per share. Over the same period, the Fund's total investment return was -1.07%, based on a change in per share net asset value from $9.24 to $8.84, and assuming reinvestment of $.276 per share income dividends.

The Municipal Market Environment

During the six-month period ended December 31, 2002, long-term fixed income interest rates continued to move lower. As they had earlier in 2002, declining U.S. equity markets and worldwide political tensions easily overshadowed the incipient U.S. economic recovery allowing bond yields to fall to recent historic low levels. In late July, second quarter 2002 gross domestic product activity was reported at 1.1%, a significant decline from the first quarter rate of 5%. This rate suggested that continued declines in U.S. equity prices were negatively affecting not only consumer and business confidence but undermining much of the economic growth seen earlier this year. Some analysts extrapolated that recent weakness would continue, if not accelerate. This brought about forecasts that the Federal Reserve Board would soon be obliged to lower short-term interest rates both to offset equity market declines and boost consumer and business spending. The possibility of lower short-term interest rates helped push longer-term bond yields lower still during July and August. The dramatic decline in U.S. equity prices in late August and September triggered a significant fixed income rally as investors sought the safe-haven status of U.S. Treasury securities. By the end of September, U.S. Treasury bond yields had fallen to 4.66%.

Bolstered by an unexpected decline in the national unemployment rate to 5.6% in early October, U.S. equity markets staged a strong rally throughout much of the month. The Standard & Poor's 500 (S&P 500) Index rose over 8% for the month, triggered by stronger-than-expected earnings reports from a large number of companies, such as General Electric Company, International Business Machines

Edgar Filing: APEX MUNICIPAL FUND INC - Form N-CSR

Corporation and Microsoft Corporation. As they have throughout most of the period, bond prices traded in an inverse relationship to equity prices. Consequently, as stocks rallied, bond yields rose in October, despite generally weak economic releases. During October, the U.S. housing sector remained quite robust, but retail sales and industrial production slowed. Fixed income bond yields remained under pressure in November as U.S. equity markets continued to strengthen. During November, the S&P 500 Index rose an additional 5.5%. Equity prices were supported by signs of further U.S. economic recovery, especially improving labor market activity. By the end of November, third quarter U.S. gross domestic product (GDP) growth was revised to 4%. Financial conditions were also strengthened by a larger-than-expected reduction in short-term interest rates by the Federal Reserve Board in early November. The Federal Funds target rate was lowered 50 basis points (.50%) to 1.25%, its lowest level since the 1960s. Recent action by the Federal Reserve Board was largely viewed as being taken to bolster the sputtering U.S. economic recovery. Rebounding U.S. equity markets and the prospects for a more substantial U.S. economic recovery pushed long-term U.S. Treasury yield levels to 5.10% by late November.

In December, softer equity prices and renewed investor concerns about potential U.S. military action against Iraq again combined to push long-term interest rates lower. The S&P 500 Index declined more than 5% in December on disappointing earnings reports and anticipated weak holiday sales. During December 2002, as both national and international investors sought the safe-haven sanctuary of U.S. Treasury issues, long-term U.S. Treasury yields declined over 25 basis points to end the period at 4.75%. During the last six months, long-term U.S. Treasury bond yields declined 75 basis points.

For the six-month period ended December 31, 2002, tax-exempt bond prices also generally rose. In recent months, municipal bond yields have declined in response to the positive fixed income environment engendered by falling equity valuations. Price advances in tax-exempt issues have not been able to keep pace with the U.S. Treasury bond price improvement as municipal bonds cannot offer foreign investors the safe-haven status U.S. Treasury obligations enjoy in periods of economic and political instability. Additionally, tax-exempt bond issuance increased dramatically in the last half of 2002 removing some of the positive technical support the municipal bond market enjoyed earlier this year. By the end of 2002, long-term municipal bond yields, as measured by the Bond Buyer Revenue Bond Index, stood at 5.16%, a decline of 25 basis points during the last six months.

Investor demand for tax-exempt products remained positive throughout the period. In addition to the approximately $75 billion investors received from June to August 2002 from bond maturities, coupon income and proceeds from early redemptions, investors are expected to receive approximately $30 billion from these sources in January 2003. The Investment Company Institute reported that in 2002 municipal bond funds net cash flows continued to be very positive at nearly $16 billion, an increase of more than 25% compared to 2001. However, these positive demand factors have not been able to offset the increase in tax-exempt new-issue supply that has resulted in the underperformance seen in recent months. This price underperformance served to make municipal bonds a particularly attractive purchase relative to their taxable counterparts. Throughout most of the yield curve, municipal bonds have been available for purchase at yields near or exceeding those of comparable U.S. Treasury issues. Compared to their recent historical averages of 82% - 88% of U.S. Treasury yields, municipal bond yields ratios at their current 95% - 105% range are likely to prove attractive to long-term investors.

Continued uncertainty regarding the pace of the current U.S. economic recovery as well as the resolution of the U.N./Iraq confrontation are likely to keep interest rates near their present levels for the immediate future. Equity market declines over the past three years have helped push interest rates lower than economic fundamentals alone would support. When U.S. business conditions improve and equity markets stabilize, however, any associated interest rate increases should not be extreme. Inflationary pressures are negligible and any move by the Federal Reserve Board to raise short-term interest rates is unlikely before late 2003. As equity valuations are likely to only gradually recover, U.S. economic recovery is also likely to be a moderate process. This suggests that the pace of any interest rate increases will be gradual. As the municipal bond market's strong technical position can be expected to remain supportive in the coming months, future tax-exempt interest rate increases should be more restrained than their taxable counterparts.

Portfolio Strategy

During the six-month period ended December 31, 2002, the high-yield tax-exempt market came under renewed pressure, as valuations remained heavily influenced by developments in the taxable corporate high-yield market. Late last summer, weaker equity markets contributed to a widening of credit spreads amid mounting investor concerns about corporate profits and the reliability of company financial statements. Portfolio investments in tax-exempt corporate-backed debt were similarly affected. Airline obligations were particularly hard hit after the sector rally earlier this year proved to be short-lived. These and other economically cyclical holdings contributed to the lackluster results during the period as high-yield fixed income markets, beset by declining liquidity and credit quality, have not participated in the rally enjoyed by both the Treasury and high grade municipal markets. Investors, perhaps more optimistic about prospects for an economic recovery, have exhibited a heightened level of risk tolerance.

Factors that had a positive effect on the Fund included concentrations in health care and tax-backed residential sectors. These sectors were largely immune to the pressures affecting corporate debt and, in fact, exhibited a tendency to rise in value relative to widely watched market benchmarks. While reasons for this strong performance vary, there is little doubt that widely publicized reports of corporate malfeasance influenced investors' preferences when making investment decisions. As a consequence, demand for high-yield municipal bonds shifted away from corporate-related debt to other sectors unaffected by these reports. Many of the portfolio's purchases during the period occurred within these sectors, which should help to mute some of the volatility associated with corporate issuance. Nevertheless, the Fund remains positioned to benefit from an improving economic environment. Corporate-related debt still constitutes a significant concentration within the portfolio and, given the cyclical nature of many of these holdings, the expected contraction in credit spreads is likely to provide a material and beneficial effect on Fund performance.

Apex Municipal Fund, Inc., December 31, 2002

In Conclusion

We appreciate your ongoing interest in Apex Municipal Fund, Inc., and we look forward to serving your investment needs in the months and years to come.

Sincerely,

/s/ Terry K. Glenn

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. Significant Accounting Policies:

Apex Municipal Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 as a non-diversified, closed-end management investment company. The Fund's financial statements are prepared in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, which may require the use of management accruals and estimates. These unaudited financial statements reflect all adjustments, which are, in the opinion of management, necessary to a fair statement of the results for the interim period presented. All such adjustments are of a normal, recurring nature. The Fund determines and makes available for publication the net asset value of its Common Stock on a weekly basis. The Fund's Common Stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol APX. The following is a summary of significant accounting policies followed by the Fund.

(a) Valuation of investments -- Municipal bonds are traded primarily in the over-the-counter markets and are valued at the most recent bid price or yield equivalent as obtained by the Fund's pricing service from dealers that make markets in such securities. Financial futures contracts and options thereon, which are traded on exchanges, are valued at their closing prices as of the close of such exchanges. Options written or purchased are valued at the last sale price in the case of exchange-traded options. In the case of options traded in the over-the-counter market, valuation is the last asked price (options written) or the last bid price (options purchased). Securities with remaining maturities of sixty days or less are valued at amortized cost, which approximates market value. Securities and assets for which market quotations are not readily available are valued at fair value as determined in good faith by or under the direction of the Board of Directors of the Fund, including valuations furnished by a pricing service retained by the Fund, which may utilize a matrix system for valuations. The procedures of the pricing service and its valuations are reviewed by the officers of the Fund under the general supervision of the Board of Directors.

(b) Derivative financial instruments -- The Fund may engage in various portfolio investment strategies to increase or decrease the level of risk to which the Fund is exposed more quickly and efficiently than transactions in other types of instruments. Losses may arise due to changes in the value of the contract or if the counterparty does not perform under the contract.

o Financial futures contracts -- The Fund may purchase or sell financial futures contracts and options on such futures contracts for the purpose of hedging the market risk on existing securities or the intended purchase of securities. Futures contracts are contracts for delayed delivery of securities at a specific future date and at a specific price or yield. Upon entering into a contract, the Fund deposits and maintains as collateral such initial margin as required by the exchange on which the transaction is effected. Pursuant to the contract, the Fund agrees to receive from or pay to the broker an amount of cash equal to the daily fluctuation in value of the contract. Such receipts or payments are known as variation margin and are recorded by the Fund as unrealized gains or losses. When the contract is closed, the Fund records a realized gain or loss equal to the difference between the value of the contract at the time it was opened and the value at the time it was closed.

o Options -- The Fund is authorized to write covered call options and purchase put options. When the Fund writes an option, an amount equal to the premium received by the Fund is reflected as an asset and an equivalent liability. The amount of the liability is subsequently marked to market to reflect the current market value of the option written.

When a security is purchased or sold through an exercise of an option, the related premium paid (or received) is added to (or deducted from) the basis of the security acquired or deducted from (or added to) the proceeds of the security sold. When an option expires (or the Fund enters into a closing transaction), the Fund realizes a gain or loss on the option to the extent of the premiums received or paid (or gain or loss to the extent the cost of the closing transaction exceeds the premium paid or received).

Written and purchased options are non-income producing investments.

(c) Income taxes -- It is the Fund's policy to comply with the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies and to distribute substantially all of its taxable income to its shareholders. Therefore, no Federal income tax provision is required.

(d) Security transactions and investment income -- Security transactions are recorded on the dates the transactions are entered into (the trade dates). Realized gains and losses on security transactions are determined on the identified cost basis. Interest income is recognized on the accrual basis.

(e) Dividends and distributions -- Dividends from net investment income are declared daily and paid monthly. Distributions of capital gains are recorded on the ex-dividend dates.

2. Investment Advisory Agreement and Transactions with Affiliates:

The Fund has entered into an Investment Advisory Agreement with Fund Asset Management, L.P. ("FAM"). The general partner of FAM is Princeton Services, Inc. ("PSI"), an indirect, wholly-owned subsidiary of Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc. ("ML & Co."), which is the limited partner.

FAM is responsible for the management of the Fund's portfolio and provides the necessary personnel, facilities, equipment and certain other services necessary to the operations of the Fund. For such services, the Fund pays a monthly fee at an annual rate of .65% of the Fund's average weekly net assets. For the six months ended December 31, 2002, FAM reimbursed the Fund in the amount of $2.

6. Subsequent Event:

On January 7, 2003, the Fund's Board of Directors declared a tax exempt income dividend to Common Stock shareholders in the amount of $.047000 per share, payable on January 30, 2003 to shareholders of record as of January 16, 2003.

ABOUT INVERSE FLOATERS

As a part of its investment strategy, the Fund may invest in certain securities whose potential income return is inversely related to changes in a floating interest rate ("inverse floaters"). In general, income on inverse floaters will decrease when short-term interest rates increase and increase when short-term interest rates decrease. Investments in inverse floaters may be characterized as derivative securities and may subject the Fund to the risks of reduced or eliminated interest payments and losses of invested principal. In addition, inverse floaters have the effect of providing investment leverage and, as a result, the market value of such securities will generally be more volatile than that of fixed rate, tax-exempt securities. To the extent the Fund invests in inverse securities, the market value of the Fund's portfolio and the net asset value of the Fund's shares may also be more volatile than if the Fund did not invest in these securities.
