BRASKEM INITIATES PROCESS TO MERGE POLIALDEN
Net present value of operating synergies is estimated at R$80 million

São Paulo, Brasil, May 16, 2006 --- Braskem (BOVESPA: BRKM5; NYSE: BAK; LATIBEX: XBRK), leader in the thermoplastic resins segment in Latin America and one of the three largest Brazilian privately-owned industrial companies, and Polialden are inviting their respective shareholders to participate in Extraordinary General Shareholders Meetings on May 31, 2006, at which the proposed merger of Polialden with and into Braskem will be discussed. This proposed merger is consistent with Braskem's commitment to add value for all of its shareholders, in addition to permitting the company to streamline its corporate structure and capture important synergy gains, thereby further improving its competitiveness.

This initiative is another important stage in the corporate integration process of Braskem and marks the end of a series of transactions that formed the company out of six different, said José Carlos Grubisich, chief executive officer of Braskem. The model for this merger, like in prior stages of this process, was designed to align the interests of all shareholders, and will guarantee to shareholders of Polialden that choose to become shareholders of Braskem access to the differentiated benefits offered by Braskem to its shareholders, he added.

Braskem already owns 100% of Polialden's voting share capital and approximately 63.7% of its total share capital. In the merger, Braskem is offering to exchange 33.62 of its class A preferred shares for each lot of 1,000 Polialden shares, based on an appraisal report with respect to both companies prepared by PricewaterhouseCoopers Auditores Independentes with financial information related to both companies at and for the three months ended March 31, 2006. This proposed exchange represents a 6.76% premium over the fair market value of the respective shareholders' equity of these companies.

To maintain the structure of Braskem's existing share capital, prior to the merger it will be necessary to approve the conversion of 2,632,119 of Braskem's class A preferred shares into Braskem common shares. In addition, Braskem will issue 7,878,825 class A preferred shares, increasing its share capital by R$105.3 million and thereby expand its base of shares traded in the market, causing its free float to reach approximately 53%. If the merger is approved, Polialden's minority shareholders will have until July 1, 2006 to exercise their appraisal rights. Polialden shareholders that exercise their appraisal rights will receive a cash payment of R$0.449 per share.

The net present value of synergy gains to be captured through this merger is estimated at approximately R$80 million. After these gains have been captured, the aggregate value of the synergistic gains that have been captured since Braskem was created will reach approximately R$400 million, over 20% more than the goal announced at the time. This fact confirms the discipline and capacity of the company in implementing its plans and reflects important competencies to be used during the next stages of Braskem's growth project, concluded Grubisich.

Braskem, a world-class Brazilian petrochemical company, is the leader in the thermoplastic resins segment in Latin America and is among the three largest Brazilian privately-owned industrial companies. The company operates 13 manufacturing plants located throughout Brazil and has an annual production capacity in excess of 5.8 million tons of thermoplastic resins and other petrochemical products.
