101(b)(7):

Gentium S.p.A. (the “Company”) and The Bank of New York Mellon (the “ADS Depository”) have entered into an amendment dated March 21, 2014 (the “Amendment”) to the Deposit Agreement dated June 15, 2005 (the “Deposit Agreement”), which Amendment becomes effective on April 13, 2014. On March 14, 2014, as permitted by the Deposit Agreement, the ADS Depository gave notice (the “Notice”) to the holders of American Depositary Shares (“ADSs”) representing ordinary shares (“Shares”) of the Company that the Deposit Agreement would terminate at 5:00 pm (Eastern time) on April 13, 2014, 30 days after the date of the Notice. The Notice also stated the intention of the ADS Depository and the Company to amend the Deposit Agreement to reduce from one year to sixty days the period that must elapse between the date of termination of the Deposit Agreement and the date after which the ADS Depository may sell the remaining Shares held by it and make the proceeds of sale available to the holders of ADSs upon surrender of their ADSs. Upon effectiveness, the Amendment will reduce the period as stated in the Notice and allow the ADS Depository to accept any offer by a subsidiary of Jazz Pharmaceuticals plc (“Jazz Pharmaceuticals”) to purchase the remaining Shares at a price of no less than $57.00 per Share unless the ADS Depository has received what it considers to be a superior bona fide offer to purchase the Shares from another party.

While the date or dates on which the ADS Depository will sell the remaining Shares has not been determined, such sale will not be completed earlier than June 13, 2014, sixty days after the termination of the Deposit Agreement. The holders of ADSs will have until at least June 12, 2014 to decide whether to receive payment from the proceeds of the sale of the Shares by the ADS Depository or to retain an ownership interest in the underlying Shares by following the instructions to surrender their ADSs and withdraw Shares underlying their ADSs provided by the ADS Depository in its Notice.

Jazz Pharmaceuticals currently beneficially owns 98% of the issued and outstanding Shares and ADSs (without duplication for Shares underlying the ADSs). Because there is no public market for the Shares and the Company does not intend to take steps to create such a market, holders of ADSs will be limited in their ability to sell the Shares underlying their ADSs following the termination of the Deposit Agreement should they choose to surrender their ADSs and withdraw Shares underlying their ADSs before June 12, 2014. Given the lack of a trading market for the Shares, it is also not clear at what price the Shares underlying their ADSs could be sold. Given that a subsidiary of Jazz Pharmaceuticals has indicated that it intends to offer to purchase such Shares from the ADS Depository at a per Share price equal to $57.00 per Share, if holders of ADSs are interested in liquidity for their equity holding in the Company, they should seriously consider opting to receive payment from the proceeds of the sale of the Shares by the ADS Depository by delaying the surrender of their ADSs until after the ADS Depository has sold the remaining Shares underlying the ADSs. The ADS Depository stated in its Notice that it will send a separate notice to the holders of ADSs with instructions of how to surrender ADSs for that purpose after the sale of the remaining Shares underlying the ADSs has been completed. Any such surrender and payment will be subject to the terms and conditions of the Deposit Agreement.
