Checkers and Rally's joins a handful of other select, nationally branded companies, such as GMAC, AOL Broadband, and Raybestos, who have signed on to sponsor Sarah Fisher this week. As part of the sponsorship, the Company's "Checkers," "Rally's" and "You Gotta Eat" logos will be displayed on all Team #23 cars.

"Sarah Fisher and Dreyer & Reinbold Racing are pleased to have Checkers and Rally's on our team," said Dennis Reinbold, Co-owner of Dreyer & Reinbold Racing. Dreyer & Reinbold Racing hired Sarah to drive the #23 car for the 2002 Indianapolis 500, where she became the fastest woman ever to qualify with a four-lap average speed of over 229 miles per hour. In August 2002, Sarah became the first woman to ever win a pole in a major league open-wheel race in North American motor sports history by capturing the MBNA pole at the Kentucky Speedway. She has been voted the IRL IndyCar Series' Crew Most Popular Driver for two consecutive years. Sarah will start 24th in the Indy 500 field this Sunday.
